

October 2017
Farm News

I walked into the barn a few days ago and one of the first things that I noticed was all of the fall colored produce being harvested and stored for future use. The autumn colors abounded; reds, oranges, yellows and the deep greens. There is something almost magical about all those wonderful colors that brighten up the old barn. They are coming from the varieties of squash that are coming in...all beautiful to look at and also wonderful tasting and good for you. Our leaves have yet to turn but the fall colors are already here.

October also brings us to the feast of St. Francis of Assisi. St. Francis' love for creation inspires much of the work done here on the farm. The methods used to farm, the care of the animals, the choices of products to grow, all reflect his and the Sisters' commitment to not only doing no damage to Earth, but to carefully tending this piece of Earth entrusted to us.

This beautiful season of the year might inspire you to take a walk through the Farm and the woods to enjoy the colors, sounds and smells of fall. Come on over and enjoy an hour or part of your day. There are surprises everywhere.
